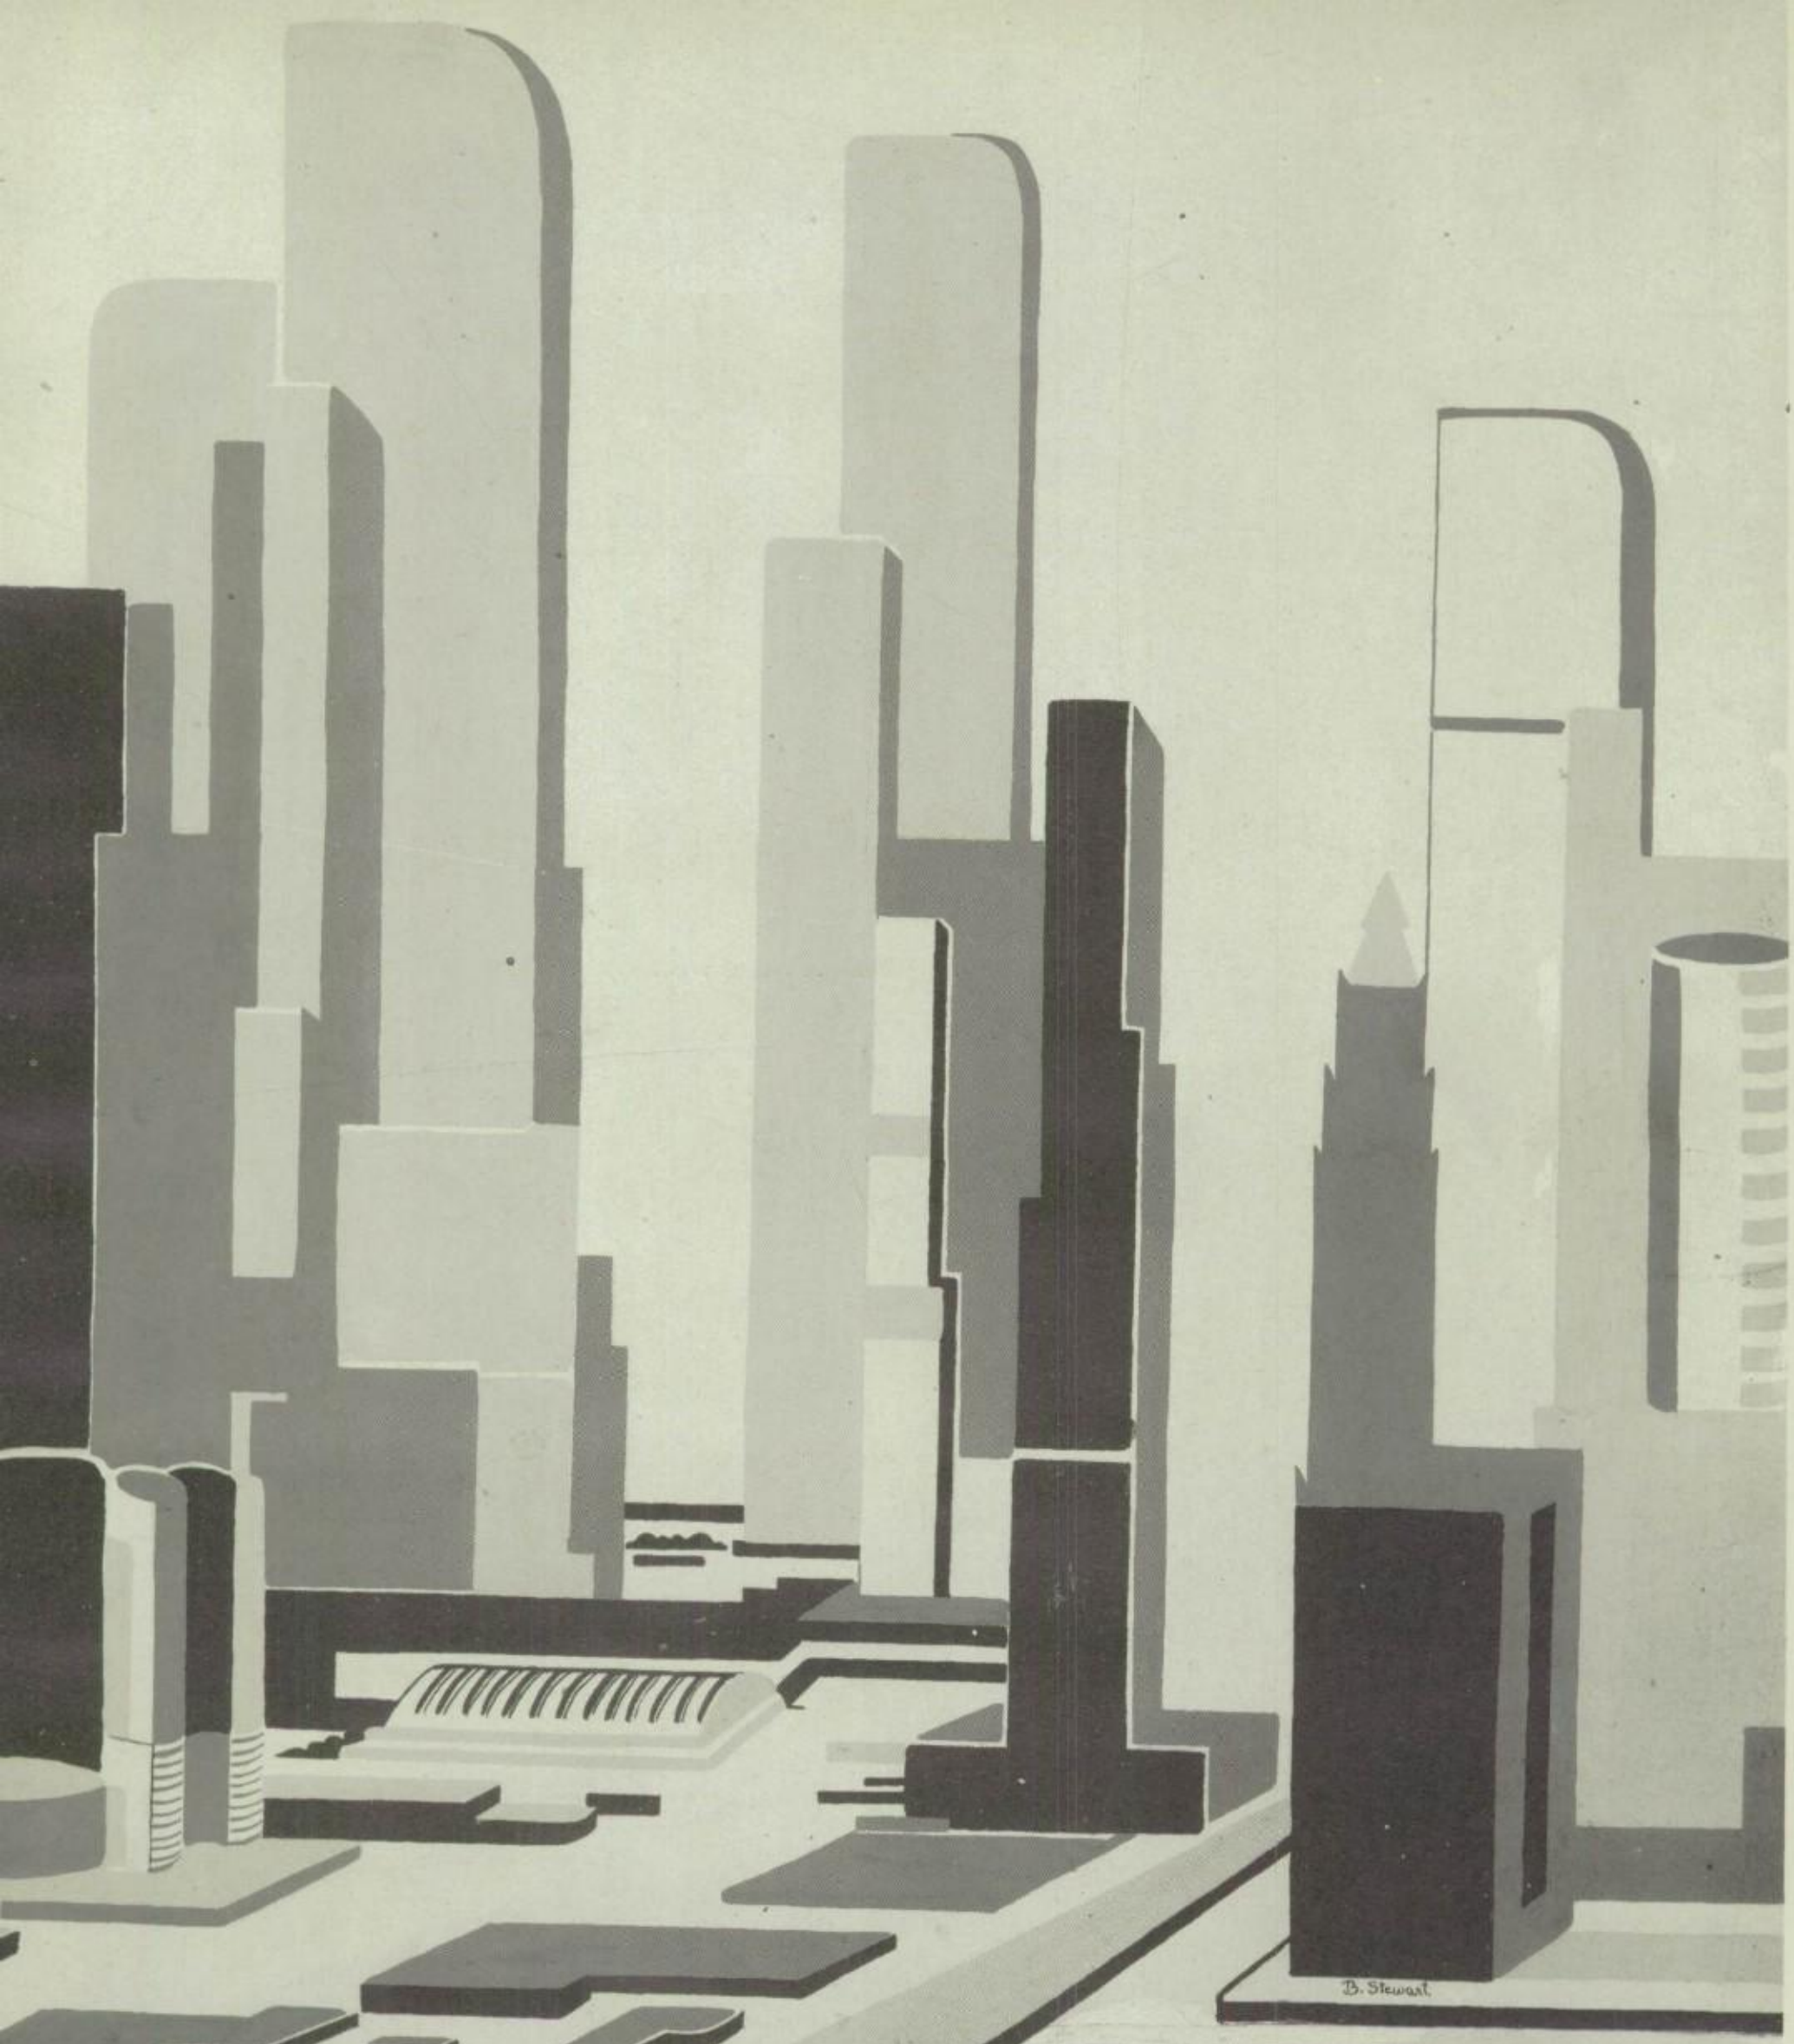
DEDICATION

To Miss Garofalo, we, the Class of Nineteen-hundred and forty-five, express our gratitude and appreciation for her sincere efforts and friendly guidance as our class advisor and faithful leader.

QUAERE PRIMUM REGNUM DEI



FOREWORD

The Yearbook Staff of Nineteen-hundred and forty-five presents the twelfth volume of "Fairfieldiana" to the Senior Class. We have strived to make this book a record of all the activities and achievements of the school year. We hope that it may, in future years, recall many fond memories of our school, our teachers, and the friendships made here and imbue us with the desire to live up to the high standards of our Alma Mater.

Class History

Our flight was scheduled to begin Wednesday, September 3, 1941. Our Pilot, Peter Bordes, and Co-pilot, Milton Pellett, warned us all to be on time. The Navigator, Ann Bradley, saw to it that all was well, and the Stewardess, Barbara Porter, had just come forward for a few last minute instructions. Our plane, a B-41, was to take off from Roger Ludlowe Field — our destination Success Airport. The crew assembled for a few final words from the airport supervisor, Miss Eleanor Foley, who wanted everything to go off as planned. Just before the take-off, we were given a handbook of by-laws to abide by on this eventful trip. Opening my copy, the first sentence I saw was the school motto, "What I am to be, I am now becoming." It was unanimously agreed among all present that there would be an all-out effort to work and live up to this age-old adage.

After being well underway, a party was given. John Ganley was chairman of the affair, and we were highly entertained in magic by a fellow passenger, Mr. Morrow. During one of the local stops, a banquet for the girls was given to better acquaint all female passengers. Unable to take off because of necessary repair work, we were somewhat startled if not totally shocked to learn of the tragic events at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, but proud of President Roosevelt's defying step in the declaration of war, December 8, 1941. A ban was immediately placed on wartime travel, and a priority had to be secured to continue on our journey. As the repairs to our ship would take a long time, we were transferred to a B-42 in order to finish the next lap of our journey before the summer weather grounded us.

Our travel was resumed again in September with a B-43. We recognized this to be the plane we had abandoned for repairs. Its conveniences being modernized, it was given a new title B-43. This time, however, activities of the passengers were curtailed and the girls' banquet and party could not be given. Our crew remained the same, and we felt secure as we had already become well acquainted with them.

Since every passenger had now become quite war-minded, it was their intent more than ever to work for the two goals uppermost in their hearts — victory and success. A brief stopover was given to relieve tension and strain on all passengers.

After a summer's rest we again boarded a plane, this time a B-44 which turned out to be a more highly developed plane than the previous one, in order to continue our journey. This time our crew was made up of Pilot, Charles O'Connor; Co-pilot, Robert Sadowski; Navigator, Peggy Walton; Stewardess, Barbara Porter, with Miss Nell Garofalo, airport supervisor. During the trip the girls busied themselves selling stickers and pencils in order to finance our next year's trip. After a short time, Charles was transferred to another plane and Robert Sadowski took over the controls. A D. A. R. Essay Contest was also entered by the passengers to pass the time. The successful authors were William Baird, Vivian Carroll, and Bernard Lee. Along the route we stopped at several places to attend the following social activities: the Girls' Banquet — the Junior Girls versus Women Faculty Basketball (we lost) — the Komian Play (after which several members of our class were selected for Thespians) — and finally Junior Prom which again had become formal.

During one of our stops we bade farewell to James Marshall and Charles Rotolo who were leaving for the service and would not continue with us on our journey. Back on board we found that several juniors had been selected for the National Honor Society. Alex Skultety had been chosen football captain for the following year, and the girls were practicing for the Daisy Chain. Before saying goodbye for another summer, we chose our Senior Council members.

The following fall we again met, very proud that this year we were to continue to our goal on a reconverted B-45 Superfortress. We were indeed coming up in the world. Our pilot this year was Edward Lobdell, Co-pilot, Pat Farma, Navigator, Josephine Sliney, and Stewardess, Marge McNamara and Miss Garofalo, Airport Supervisor. Immediately many of the passengers joined first-aid classes while others continued selling roster cases, pennants and pencils. Class pictures were also taken and the idea that we were nearing Success Airport was keenly felt by everyone. Our first social event of the year was the Senior Council Dance followed by the Halloween Dance.

Meanwhile our year was turning out to be a very successful one from the sports angle. The football team had an undefeated season. The All Sports Banquet and Football Hop were held in December. The Basketball team played in the New England Tournament in the spring.

Numerous students had the opportunity to be X-rayed for tuberculosis. More of our members were selected for the National Honor Society. In February, after much work and effort, the Commercial club issued an interesting edition of Commercialite which had not been published for a number of years.

Soon after this we were in the midst of Class Day preparations and we realized that our plane was circling Success Airport. Amid the preparations for our landing we could not help sensing keenly the absence of those boys who had left us to join the services of Uncle Sam.

As we finally received our admittance cards to Success Airport and walked down the runway, we were obliged to admit that true to our motto, "What I am to be I am now becoming," had truly materialized in each of our passengers.

The National Athletic Society of Secondary Schools is an honorary society famous throughout the United States. This National organization was organized in 1925 in Washington, D. C. by Lyman K. Davis. The following is a list of the association officers from 1925 until 1945:

First president ..... Lyman K. Davis, Washington, D. C.
Second president ..... P. L. Larson, Little Rock, Arkansas
Third president ..... H. A. Swaffield, Mt. Pelier, Vermont
Fourth president ..... B. C. Ligthe, North Dakota

Of these, H. A. Swaffield, principal of the Roger Ludlowe High School, in Fairfield still remains on the executive board.

To become a proud member of this organization, a boy during his high school career must earn a varsity letter in one of the major or minor sports. He must maintain for at least three consecutive semesters an average in grades equal to or higher than the general average of the school. In addition, he must exhibit a high type of citizenship and sportsmanship. Coaches of schools decide on those eligible for membership.

To become a member of the National Athletic Scholarship Society is an honor to any young American boy.

PROPHECY

Oh, woe is me! Woe is us, as a matter of fact! Otis is gone. Poor Otis! But what could I do? The Time Chair is the usual medium for prophecies and somebody had to test ours. Was it my fault that it was attached to the electric light switch? Was it my fault that Otis couldn't jump quickly enough? But still the problem of writing the prophecy stared me in the face. I stared back. I've got it! Why not consult the Great Swami, Abdul Svenson?

After a tedious journey I found myself in the awe-inspiring room of Abdul. A cold, damp, clammy feeling suddenly came over me. I took off my raincoat. Drawing up the only unoccupied object in the room upon which to sit, which happened to be a long, black 6' by 3' box, I sat down!

To amuse myself, I started to read the signs on the walls, "Taurus," "Leo," "Cancer," "Capricorn." They were all there. In the far corner, in fine Gothic print, was the sign, "This building condemned by the Board of Health." Suddenly a gong sounded, followed by the pitter-patter of my teeth on the floor. From between purple, star-studded draperies, stepped the Swami, a turban wrapped around his head, a glowing crystal ball in his hand. He placed the ball gently on a table and motioned me to take the place opposite him.

Gazing into the crystal ball, he muttered the magic words, "Huba-Huba." A small, glowing object gleamed from the black depths of the ball. It became larger, larger, and larger. The gleam was brighter, brighter, and still brighter until it was blinding. Blinking I looked at it again and then recognized——— Mr. Swaffield's Head!

It was the decennial event when Mr. Swaffield attempted to organize the chaotic conglomeration of papers, books, bottles, pencils, calenders, Varga girls, and loose hairs that had accumulated in his desk during the past decade. Lifting objects at random, he discovered he was holding an old copy of a year book. From appearance, one would believe it to be from the year one, but upon closer examination, he discovered it was the last remaining concrete relic of the Class of 1945. His thoughts turned to the present.

"Heavens! What a class day this Class of '55 has afforded me. Never since I became principal has a noisier group of juvenile delinquents passed through these portals. For the past four years I have had to nail down everything moveable in these halls." Once more he looked fondly at the '45 year book, and flipped over the pages.

"They were the good people." (Editor's note: 37 arrests and 14 convictions.)

His thoughts were interrupted by the incessant ringing of the telephone. The conversation ran thus:

"Hello?"

"No!!!"

"I'll see about this immediately!"

"You're sure?"

"All right, goodbye.———Miss Johnson, call an assembly at once!"

A burp by the Swami interrupted the scene, but as the crystal ball cleared, I could see the student body filing into the gym. The calm voice of Professor Atherton, teacher of Home Economics, encouraged the students ———"Hep, two, three, four. Hep, two, three, four."

After the usual fanfair, the inspiring voice of Mr. Swaffield was heard.

"Students, I realize that a joke's a joke, but won't you please tell me where you hid the auditorium? It is imperative that we find it, in order to be prepared for tomorrow's debate between Notre Dame's renowned coach, Alexander Skultety, and the equally important, Terry Roberts, coach of Yale's undefeated bull dogs, who will speak on the subject, Should Football Be Made Co-ed?"

After a period of dead silence, Mr. Swaffield said, "Very well, then, I shall take immediate and drastic steps. From now on, there shall be no more smoking in class. Miss Johnson, here's a nickel, phone Sherlock Bonavia immediately."

The crystal ball darkened, but soon a new scene was vividly portrayed. Sherlock Bonavia and his assistant, Francis "Jet Propulsion" Lyons, were seen following a large pack of blood hounds and a beautiful blonde through the streets of Fairfield . . . into Joyce Casey's "Castle for Contented Cows," where they stopped for a quick double malted float with a coke for a chaser. Gloria Garrison and Dorothy Frimpter who were waiting on them couldn't remember a large mass of people carrying an auditorium through the streets, so the two noble sleuths continued on the trail. Sherlock stopped a member of Fairfield's finest who, like most policemen, was describing his feats and chiseling a little fruit on the side from Barnum and Reidy's Fruit Store where Tom O'Brien was making out very successfully as manager.

Officer Stranko offered his services, and the little group invaded the Miller-Moran Beauty Salon upsetting Stella Kolida, Dolores Cavanaugh, and Mary Lou Sherry who were relaxing in their chairs succumbing to the glorious exhiliration received from the slapping of mud and the new sensation sand on their faces. Neville Smih, who was getting his weekly finger wave from Regina Dzierzanowski, was busy fighting off the Bobby-Sox brigade who were smothering him with cries of "Oh, Nevy!'

According to Volume II, Article XII, Page 194, Paragraph 1, of the By-Laws of the Order of Sleuths, every detective must have a half hour off for lunch, so with his in mind, our sleuths left the Salon and headed for Ralph Hill's Hacienda. He left Lyons and the bloodhounds tied to the fire hydrant outside. This week Bob Boback and his Torrid Troubadors were being featured. Sherlock checked his Junior G-Man Fingerprint Outfit, and as he turned to make his way to a table, he stood face to face with Barbara Borsody, a rather luscious cigarette girl.

Sherlock was, however, calmed down by Joe Wall, the bouncer and had gathered his wits sufficiently to order a meal of chocolate covered oysters from the head waiter, Bob "Gaston" Murray. The lovely strains of "I've Got Those Morning after the Night before Blues" by Adele Daley, the up and coming song writer, drifted across the room. These melodious notes didn't come from a broken valve as Sherlock had suspected, but from that palpitating prima donna of the airwaves, Joyce Reuther. An Apache dance, during which Roger Forsberg took a terrific beating from his partner, Betty Callan, landed both the performers in Sherlock's lap. The next act was a lovely thing in which Fina Gonzalez, a contortionist, jumped through a hoop held by a little dog named "Snookie."

The next morning, magnifying glass in hand, and ice sack on his head, Sherlock trudged out of the Hacienda into the thriving metropolis of Fairfield. The posse interrupted a political and rather homicidal argument between two opposing factions on the subject, "Who Would Make a Better President?" . . . Ernest W. Vince or Joan K. Luddy.

Signs, posters, banners, all bearing the inscription, "Vin Vit Vince" preceded the large political parade. Pat Kellogg, the energetic majorette, was prancing down the street followed by a battalion of Junior Commandos, including General Henry Dirks, Field Marshal William Borsi, and Privates Leonard Sabia, Ed Filanowski, and Frank Moravek. Ernest Vince, in the center, looking dynamic, inspiring, and majestic in his suit of tar and feathers was leaving town (by popular request) for a political campaign in the Gobi Desert.

Next, our attention was caught by a dazzling statue of liberty, Elaine Porter, posing on a spectacular float. A banner attached to an ice cream cone held in her upraised hand read, "Liberty with Luddy." Draped gracefully at the base of the statue were several Powers models among whom we noticed Arlene Taylor, Beverly Jean Webster, and Joan Thibault. Lying languidly in the midst of posies was the exotic Patrick Aloyious Farma, the renown pin-up boy of the Annapolis for Women."

Realizing that he was accomplishing nothing, Sherlock proceeded down the main street toward the business section.

The crystal ball darkened, then cleared again, and I saw Sherlock skipping down the street which was lined on either side with small shops. Oh yes, there's Berardino's Bakery, and Mercurio's Grocery, and———say, what's this? A very odd-looking shop decorated with streamers hanging from the roof, attracted the attention of our super-sleuth as he dashed down the street. On top of this little shop, in modernistic letters was a sign which read, "Civkin's Russian Reducing Salon." Could this be our old classmate? Sauntering in, he found Harold Hough expertly massaging several customers. In another room, he saw Lis Inderdohnen and Muriel Leary who were in charge of the steam baths. In a third room was James Arbas, formerly a gym teacher, leading a group of ladies in exercises while Ken Carlson encouraged them with strains from his harps.

"It seems like old home week around here", said Sherlock to himself. Since all his friends were very busy, Sherlock wandered out and found himself directly in front of a little shop called "Schuman's Shangri-La." What's this? What kind of establishment can this be? He entered and saw to his amazement a group of about fifteen, standing before none other than "Twinkle-Toes" Schuman, himself, who was at this time engaged in his rendition of the "Dance of the Buttercups." The music was being supplied by the enchanting and haunting strains of Ken Benedict's flute. Among the group he noticed a few familiar faces, such as Ruth Barr, Inez Townsend, and Dorothy Myer. Practicing the piroutte in an out-of-the-way corner were Jack Belanger and Bill Baird, each clad in a pair of skin-tight fuchia tights. No doubt it was the lunch hour at Upham's Brewery.

After exchanging greetings with Twinkle Toes, Sherlock meandered along. Not having gone very far, he noticed a large white sky-scraper on his left. In neon lights were the words, "Lobdel's Revue de Glamour." How could he resist going in?

The offices were on the 784th floor, but he was soon there in a super-elevator operated by Flash Johnson, former P38 pilot. As he wandered down the hallway, he glanced into a door marked — David Russell, Editor. Sitting at a desk was Frannie Kachmar, busily typing away. He stopped in to talk, and as he was inquiring as to the whereabouts of the missing auditorium, a crash and shouted words startled him — "Get out and stay out!" Frannie explained that Ken Williams came in daily and was systematically thrown out by Katie McClinch, the Lovelorn Editor. When she saw Sherlock, Katie insisted upon showing him around. In the advertising department he found Charlie Downs as its head, with a staff of efficient secretaries and typists including Helen Greenwald, Katherine Hopko, and Caroline Manzetti. In the art department he met another alumnus — Charlie Wood — busily sketching Justine Williams, who was wearing a lovely outfit created by that sensational new designer — A René Renau — whom we knew in her younger days as "Gunga" Liptak.

Completing his extensive tour, he left relunctantly to continue his search.

He made his way into the teaming lobby and as he was leaving by the revolving door, with his pack of bloodhounds at his heels, he stopped to buy a paper from a smiling paper boy. To his surprise he recognized him as Joe DelBuno.

Glancing at the headlines, he was startled to read "FIRE SWEEPS THROUGH PELLET'S PICKLE PLANT." Becoming interested, he read further.

"The origin of the fire is yet unknown, but it has been rumored that Russel Adams head of the laboratory, has been experimenting on a new type of incendiary pickle. David Shoup, president of the company, declared that the fire had destroyed $50,000 worth of pickles. Betty Whitney and Joyce White, industrial nurses, were swamped by victims of a slight scorch. The most tragic of these was the case of Ronald Thelin, chairman of the Pickle Presser's Local No. 278320600047.1. As a pickle presser, Chairman Thelin's job was to press down the last pickle in the jar so that the lid could be screwed on by his assistant, Helen Eisenman."

The opinion of Fire Chief John Sisko was expressed as follows: "This certainly burns me up."

Mrs. Pellett, nee Marge Bok, practicing first aid was at her husband's side at the catastrophe.

As he was walking down the street reading the paper, darkness suddenly descended — in fact, Sherlock suddenly descended, for he had fallen into a man-hole. Obligingly, a hand helped him out. He was dazzled by a gleaming medal with the letters D. S. C. engraved upon it. The medal, to which Bob Sadowski was attached, upon closer inspection bore the inscription, "District Street Cleaner," in a fine clear print. As the two were talking over old times, a voice hailed them. Ah! It was Bob Seirup on his daily mail route. Bob had news that he had seen the auditorium gaily bouncing down Warf Street. Sherlock, hot on the trail, hopped a Central Bus. In one terrific spring he reached the only available seat before an elderly woman. Where has chivalry gone?

Nonchalantly leaning back, he was immensely entertained by an enlightening conversation carried on between two voices which he later identified as Helen Kucky and Ann O'Neil.

"My dear, have you heard that poor Doris' husband — you know that cute Mr. Goldsmith — with the little goatee has lost his wonderful position at Jack Conner's Stork Seminary. But that's how it goes!"

"You haven't, by any chance, read Pat Forrester's new novel on Sue Fisher, Doctor and Homemaker."

"No, but I hear it's the best she's written."

"It should be, it's her first."

"It's being published by Pollak's Publishing House."

After fifteen minutes of intense listening, Sherlock discovered that Warf Road was the approaching stop. Upon handing his fare to the conductor, whom he noticed as Edith Pall, Sherlock descended the bus and began trudging towards the water front. For some reason Sherlock never took to the water-front atmosphere. Thinking about this a little in detail, he decided it all began when his favorite girl had adopted "Scent of the God" by Veibranz as her dstinctive perfume. What a fishy affair that had been.

By this time Sherlock had approached the wharf and after inspecting every nook and corner imaginable in hopes of some news about his grave problem, he decided to sit down on someone's steamer trunk and view the passengers who were descending from the exclusive line, the "Se Ski Squ", which, everyone knew, belonged to our former pencil pushers, Seirup, Skiba, and Squeo who were now well on the road to becoming multi-multi millionnaires.

The first one he recognized leaving the boat was the former Mary Sheddon. She had been studying in France for quite a while. Sherlock remembered reading the social page of last month's Fairfield News, that Mary had been married to some Viennese Count, but after wiping his monocle, he discovered that it was one of Mary's many French poodles at her heels and not her newly acquired husband.

Upon inquiring as to why Phyllis Donley, hot news reporter for the town newspaper, was present at this time, we found out that Ernie "Neon" Kovacs, that successful painter, had been painting abroad and was to arrive home today. Why, sure enough, who should Sherlock's eyes feast upon — none other than Ernie himself. No doubt his tie was one of his masterpieces. Phyllis also informed me that the two girls with Ernie were his private secretaries. We recognized them as being Evelyn Szoke and Agnes Zygmant.

Deciding that time was awasting, Sherlock was about ready to return to Mr. Swaffield and admit defeat when a loud noise startled him. He turned in utter surprise — "What's going on?" To his amazement a huge spout of water, from which appeared the balcony of the lost auditorium, had come up. Eureka!!! Sherlock turned to his assistant joyfully. Frannie Lyons, the assistant, who had up to this time said nothing — said nothing!

Harold Loomis, a recent graduate of the famed Charles Atlas course, struggled out bearing the auditorium on his shoulders. Sherlock demanded an explanation from Loomis. Loomis' comment was "Gurgle, Gurgle." Loomis, we found, was the personal representative of the Ronald Morgan & John Hurley, Fumigating Company. The Helen Beardsley Chemical Company, it seems, ran out of Fumigating fumes, so they, Morgan & Hurley, had to resort to drastic measures — the river!!!

Sherlock rented a van from the Frank Bunkoci Trucking Company, and with the aid of Teddie Burr and Doris Woodward, truckerettes, the missing wing was taken triumphantly through the street homeward.

Exactly five minutes was lost in a traffic jam caused by the inexperience of Estelle Herold, Traffic officer. While waiting to get free of this jam, Sherlock noticed on the motor-scooter in front of him a poster reading — "Eleanor Lengyel presents Devil Street, starring Emmy Lou Sammis with Carolyn Smith."

They finally zoomed off!!! "At last," thought Sherlock, "my mission is completed, and I can now think of the finer things of life." With this thought in mind he puckered up his lips in wolf-like fashion and was about to whistle at Grace Thompson, an F. H. S. history teacher, who was walking with her colleague Florence Saunderson, teacher of Biology, when he was stopped by the sight of a curley-head topped by a visor cap. Ah, it was Dorothy Bjorlin driving a "You name it, we'll slaughter it" taxi cab. Sherlock resorted to waving merrily at Dotty.

When they arrived at school, Bonavia marched proudly up the stairs to announce his victory to Mr. Swaffield. At the door stood a uniform———No, it was a girl — none other than Barbara Wishneski, Keeper of the Door. Sherlock saluted and sauntered into the "Inner Sanctum." Icy fear gripped his heart — No, No, Sherlock, you don't go to school any more! Remember? Ah, yes, but those were the good old days, weren't they———the words died slowly away, and the Swami raised his head.

"Sahib, the crystal ball dims; perhaps the gleam of gold will restore its splendor, but alas, we were unable to see further into the future, for our gold supply had mysteriously vanished. Well, at least we had seen——— say what's this? In one of Abdul's dark corners stood Damaris MacFarquhar patiently blowing a Scotch bagpipe. We stared at the Swami belligerently — he had failed us; he had left a member of our cult out of the foretelling of the future. The Swami gestered wildly, and Damaris reluctantly crawled back into the crystal ball. Before she did so, however, we managed to ask her what her occupation was. She told us proudly that she and her bagpipe were renowned the world over as music lovers. This, she said, was probably due to that music appreciation class of Miss Walter's away back in the year of 1945. As she faded away, we left the Swami's palace. As a whole the class turned out pretty well— you never would have guessed it, would you?

Class Will

We, the class of 1945, of Fairfield, Connecticut, do hereby make this our last will and testament.

After the payment of our just debts and funeral expenses, we give and devise as follows:

1. To the School Board we give our thanks for the convenient new corridors.

2. To Mr. Swaffield, an electric eye for his door so the freshmen won't wear out their knuckles knocking.

3. To Miss Johnson we leave a class of model students who will not look out the window!

4. Miss Garofalo, we gave you our dollars and now we give you our most sincere gratitude for the assistance and guidance you have given us.

5. To Mr. Wells of the bus line, a real New England snowstorm that will be bad enough for once to cause the no-school signal to sound in Fairfield.

6. We leave Miss Sanders a book entitled "How to Run the Fox and Live on 24 Hours a Day."

7. Mary Lou O'Brien leaves her fan-mail in an asbestos packet to Nancy Fray with the hope that she'll "handle with care."

8. Oscar Anderson leaves to Clifford Johnson that deep bass voice.

9. Virginia McDermott bequeaths her beloved roller skates to Peggy Ryan, who takes the art quite seriously.

10. Lillian Shelton wills a megaphone—as good as new—to Melora Herold.

11. Fairfield's Arthur Murray, Freddy Weems himself, leaves his six easy lessons to George "Twinkle-toes" Williams.

12. Bette Whiteman leaves her lively cousin, Urb, to the mercy of the junior girls with a silent prayer that he won't be torn apart in the rush.

13. Marjorie Bock, better known as Bocky, leaves her Thespian pin to Herbie Rothschild, who is always acting up in class.

14. To Anne Waltman of the Sophomore Class goes Martha Peterson's cute sprinkling of freckles.

15. Leo Hirsch bequeaths his volume, The Science of Liking Science, to Chas. Baldwin, who, no doubt, could use it.

16. Doris Ecklund leaves to "Pop" Whittaker's next year's trig class that mathematical brain and all of her eleven fingers to count on.

17. That good-natured smile of Virginia Hull's is willed to popular Janie Barber with the money-back guarantee that it will help her "win friends and influence people."

18. Danny Cherkoss bestows upon Gus Pulos his really remarkable ability to talk and talk and talk!

19. Shirley Gagnon, our petite red-head, leaves her skill at taking that 100-words-a-minute shorthand to Peggy Norton with the advice, "Practice makes perfect."

20. Lucille Golias leaves her day-dreaming about that certain somebody to Audrey Evans, who probably has several somebodys to think about.

21. Joan "Frankie, I Love You" Rafferty leaves her weakness for swooning to those junior girls who have already started a commotion over "sigh" Van Johnson.

22. The quiet, debonair manner of our erstwhile senior, Fred Hustek, is left to Ted Hilton and Paul Thorndike. Maybe two of them can equal Fred!

23. Billy "Here, There, and Everywhere" Skoog leaves his duties on the football team to Harold Moy. Swing along, Harold, there's loads to be done.

24. Marge Ann McNamara bequeaths her brightly polished apple to the members of her family who wish also to acquire a four-year friendship with "Pop" Whittaker.

25. Mary Lou Flicker, whose eye for fashion is in tip-top condition, leaves her ability to select trim, neat, and terrific combinations in sweaters and skirts to Nancy Braunfield who has raised quite a few eyebrows with her present collection.

26. Wanda Chelstowski, our quiet, reserved senior leaves those traits to Lizzie Morehouse, who might learn something if she stood still long enough!

27. Bob Nagy leaves that business of blushing at the slightest provocation to any boy who thinks it might work, with the advice that if done properly, you can get away with anything!

28. Virginia Wood leaves her pig-tails to all the girls who object when "Pig-tail Day" rolls around. "They're not so bad," says she. In our opinion they're O.K.

29. Bob Bohman leaves his isolationist theory to Johnny Huntington.

30. Bernard "Watch the Birdie" Lee leaves his position as ace photographer to any lower classman who has a camera.

31. Harriet Kunin leaves her bowling score of 250 to Margie Shedden, who—we hear—could use a few lessons.

32. Lorraine Cuony leaves her efficiency to Sue Hoyt, who really doesn't need it.

34. Betty Rowe leaves her quiet and reserved manner to Sally Hubbard.

35. Bob Seirup leaves a pair of Adler Elevator shoes to Doug Stewart, who could use an additional foot or two.

36. Walter Goldsmith leaves his carefree, unassuming manner to George Johnson.

37. Sue Beisel leaves those cool and limpid blue eyes to Nancy Norling.

38. John Demeter wills his shy and retiring manner to Wilson Hawkes, another man of mystery.

40. Herb Smith leaves to Bill Hoffman his book on how to learn Spanish in ten easy lessons!

41. Joan Stubenhaus bequeaths her much-used edition of the poem, "Would I Were a Butterfly" to next year's football team.

42. Betty Yacco leaves her wide variety of pleated plaid skirts to any lower class girl who happens to take the same size.

43. "Cut" Jacouzzi leaves a bright red yo-yo to Frank McGregor so that he too may exercise his basketball eye in between seasons.

44. Frances Renzulli wills one of the school's cash registers to any junior who may have fourth period free and who knows how to add.

45. Beatrice Lee leaves her Dietrich gait to Sue Waldo, who seems to have taken a few lessons herself.

46. Alyce Fredrickson leaves a year's supply of postage stamps to Connie Higgins as a reminder of that daily letter.

47. Robert Rasmussen leaves his job at Gamble's to any junior fellow who is inclined to play with paper dolls.

48. General Alvin Douglas of the U. S. Army leaves a can of oil from his great big flivver to Bob "Rah! Rah!" Jansen, whose own little gadabout can be heard from the other side of town.

49. Stephen Butzko leaves his joke cracking to Zeke Sullivan, "The Smiling Irishman."

50. Mario Fracassini leaves his gentle ways of doing things to Tom Condon, the gentleman in the racoon coat.

51. Edwin Lowell leaves his tough, but oh so gentle, manner to Ernest Petrusaitis, the he-man of the Class of 1947.

52. Ray "You Made Me Love You" Fernandez leaves his love for the girls to Duane Greenawalt of the Junior Class.

53. Harold Rutkin leaves his corny tricks to David "Beans" Bender of the Junior Class.

54. Janet Drew, a famed Thespian, wills her dramatic personality to Dick Forsythe. Keep up the good work, Dick.

60. Jean Thompson, the teachers' delight, leaves her good marks to Carolyn Anderson.

61. John Beresky leaves to Professor Jay Pike a collection of leather bound murder mysteries and an additional volume containing the answer to "Who Done It?"

62. Albert Driver leaves to Jackie O'Connor plans for a mechanism to slow up bells at 8:30 and, at the same time, to balance equations in chemistry.

63. Charlie Jones bequeaths his collection of recording of laughs to Hugh Goldie so that he Dewey buttons to Mr. McGuire for future use when he runs out of cough drops.

64. Ed Finney wills to Norman Ericson the task of comforting the sizeable number of females saddened by his departure to the Navy. (By request)

65. Charlie Bartlett leaves his monocle and his bottle of hair restorer to Mait MacNamara with the hope that he will have more success.

66. Bob Barnard leaves behind him his green and black plaid shirt to any underclassman who thinks he can fill it out.

67. Gladys Kost bequeaths her giggles, her blushes, but not Charlie, to that giggley little junior, Joan Linley.

68. Ann "Come Again, Gone Again" Jacobs leaves her trolley tracks from Utah and back to the Girls' A. A. with suggestions for next year's trip.

69. Margot Robertsen gives up Hope.

70. Marie Becker bequeaths a drawer of broken test tubes and smoking chemicals to Impy Hoyt, who—we hope—does not have butter fingers.

71. Vivacious Viv Carrol wills her vim, vigor, and vitality to versatile Virginia Kenney.

72. Dottie Chicos leaves her luscious purple raincoat to Jean Taylor in preference to the nurse's cap.

73. Bob Woolf leaves his ability to do capable and energetic work on the Fox to any junior who can do as good a job as he did.

75. Charlie "Chuck" Atherton leaves his knack of wearing sweaters to Tommie Hayden.

76. Pauline Ference leaves her quiet ways to our so, so quiet freshman—Mildred Higgins.

77. Phil and Kay Donley leave Sue and Annie Lou Waldo to show the world that sisters can really get along swell together.

78. Jo Sliney leaves her ability to make principal's list every time to Beryl Pinckney.

79. To Bob Sherwood, Billy Cox leaves his charming manner with the ladies.

80. John Murcko leaves his highly individual ways to any underclassman who thinks he can handle them.

81. Marge Banyacski leaves her quiet and industrious way to Lista Lincoln, who may not be quiet—but!!

82. Jack Thomas, the coal financier, leaves an eye-lash curler to Myron Ballen, who—we've been told—has half a dozen of his own.

83. Lillian Cahill leaves her purple-and-orange-spotted goldfish to Bob Steiner, who already seems to know some fish stories.

84. Clara Vayda leaves her tobacco auctioneer chant and megaphone to all lower classmen. Need we say more!

85. Marion Thomas leaves that intellectual look to Kate Lennon, whose glasses are her only excuse for this title.

86. Shirley Buckley leaves a special seat on the Greenfield Hill bus to any freshman carrying enough books to entitle him to it.

87. Abbie Murphy bestows a lasso and a too may be assured of listeners and laughter.

88. Alice "Anchors Away" Grywalski leaves christening privileges in the Kaiser Ship Yards to her sister Cecilia, who—we hope—will carry on the old Grywalski fashion.

89. Ken Benedict leaves well-worn tracks through the halls of Roger Ludlowe for the incoming freshmen to admire.

90. Beatrice Bertha leaves a season's ticket for the Ritz to Nancy Moffitt of the Freshman Class with the thought that when she reaches her senior year she should be quite an accomplished dancer.

91. Julie Szost leaves a book, How to Operate the Mimeograph, to Ruth Neilsen, whose fear of the machine is yet to be overcome.

92. Audrey Santillo leaves to Marilyn Lee her job of taking messages around.

93. Neville Smith leaves his book on Charles Atlas to "Muscles" Tomlin, who has well earned his title.

94. Joe Miro, alias "Mo Jiro," leaves his farm tools to John Pelos.

95. Peg Walton leaves her franchise with the Westport Transportation Company to any lower classman who thinks that she could find a man as well as she.

96. Justine Williams leaves with a bang!

97. Joan Tetrault places her cloak of nonchalance on the shoulders of Margo Shaughnessy.

98. Dave "Russ" Russell wills his well-earned title of Doctor of Epicurisy to Ned, his freshman brother.

99. We leave Mr. Bowes an extra "quarantine" sign, just in case an epidemic of measles should break out—wasn't it chicken pox?

100. To Miss O'Dwyer we leave a can of polka-dot paint to redecorate her car.

101. Betty Grant, the girl with a ring on the third finger left hand, leaves her happiness to any junior who is able to make that great decision.

102. Pete Stranko leaves his senior privilege of going to sleep in class to sleepy-eyed Joe Pander.

103. William Buermeyer, Miss Waner's little Sergeant-at-Arms, leaves some hydrogen sulphide to the unsuspecting Junior Chemistry Class.

104. Kay Donley, the Woodbury Soap girl, leaves her radiant complexion to Eileen Malcolm who really doesn't need it.

105. Carl Peterson leaves his right to be deferred after his 18th birthday to the older boys in the class of 1946, with the hope that they won't have to use it.

106. To Miss Thompson, the Will Committee extends thanks for stepping in and helping out.

107. John Sisko, our "Cisco Kid," gives up his position on numerous school committees to Art Leiss.

108. Michael, the brain, Vassallo, leaves to Jimmy Fraser one report card for future use.

109. John O'Hare leaves his ability to get his coat before 2:30 to Stephen Kost.

110. We leave the Gendrons a brand new recording of our Alma Mater. May be that way the freshmen will learn the words.

111. Mary Lou Sherry and Eleanor Mills leave their four years of jovial friendship to Nancy Braunfield and Betsy Wakeman.

112. Dolores Cavanaugh bequeaths her four years of trying to jump the buck to Nancy MacFarquhar, who still has three more years.

113. Marjorie Kell leaves her luscious feather cut to Nadine Smith, whose blonde hair is well known in the halls of Roger Ludlowe.

114. Bob "Shyboy" Lockwood leaves a few diamonds to the Class of '46 to supplement their treasury.

115. Clyde Rennison leaves his uncanny ability to depart for Florida during exams to John Filep, who could use a bit of escapism!

116. Babs Porter leaves her Whoosh! to Fairfield Center to meet the Prep bus to Pat Pellet, who also meets her friends at Gendrons.

117. We leave Mary Kish, Anamarie McAvoy, Ann Mihalovic and Shirley Snow to the class of 1946. In case they should do something sensational, we suggest that they put Winchell on their trail.

118. Walt Bonavia bequeaths his own private lover's lane for use as a memorial to Cupid.

119. Mary Hamilton leaves a wide, uncluttered bridge to and from Stratford.

120. Joe Sabre leaves his ability to "High gauge" the work in Mr. Ambrose's class periods 5 and 6 to Elmer Major.

121. Bob "Drain Pipe" Waehler leaves his original recording, "Never Do Today What Can Be Put Off Until Tomorrow," to almost any lower classman.

122. Mike Szilagyi, Ray Hull, and William Sizensky leave tears in the eyes of all their teachers.

All the rest, residue, and remainder of our estate we give and devise to the Class of 1946. We nominate Joe Judge to be the executor of this, our last will and request, that he be exempt from giving surety on his official bond.

In testimony whereof, we hereunto set our hand and seal this, the 21st day of February, 1945.

Susan Beisel
Betty Callan
Frances Kachmar
Damaris MacFarquhar
Milton Pellett
Mary Shedden
Robert Seirup
Peggy Walton

On this the 21st day of February of 1945, the above-mentioned members of the class of 1945 of Roger Ludlowe High School signed the foregoing will in our presence and we, at their request, in their presence and in the presence of each other, subscribe our names as witnesses.

Football

The 1944 football season proved to be one of the best in the history of Roger Ludlowe's fighting elevens. Being undefeated, untied, and very seldom scored upon, our team carried the Fairfield banner high.

The Sports Writers' Association at the annual meeting in New Haven, ranked us third, with New London and Ansonia in first and second places respectively. This ranking, however, was and still is a question that has been debated time and time again.

We tied with Stamford for the County "A" title, but a post season game to decide for the crown could not be played.

A deciding factor in the games played throughout the season proved to be our excellent defensive record. There were only thirteen points scored against the team during the entire 1944 season.

Fairfield 33 — Prep 0

Paced by Captain Al Skultety, Fairfield romped over the Jesuits with a 33-0 count in the first game of the season. Charlie Atherton, star tackle, came into the spotlight when he caught a batted ball in mid-air and raced seventy yards for a touchdown. Stopa, who played his last game before entering the navy, gave the fans many a thrill.

Fairfield 7 — Harding 0

At Hedges Stadium, Roger Ludlowe engaged Harding under the lights and came out on top with a 7-0 victory. Harding, threatening many times throughout the game, was stopped three times inside the ten yard line by a defense that rose to the occasion. The touchdown came in the last remaining seconds when Captain Al Skultety smashed over from the two yard line after a pass play from Lobdell to Skiba.

Fairfield 13 — Central 0

With Fairfield and Central both bearing identical records of three successive wins and no defeats, this fray was to be a deciding factor for the County "A" title. The outcome was rather disconcerting for the Red and Black. They had no first downs throughout the game and lost three yards by rushing. This was one of the worst defeats Central has suffered at the hands of the Roger Ludlowe team.

Fairfield 13 — Milford 0

Here again, Captain Skultety was the shining light scoring two touchdowns in the last half after a fighting Milford team gave way to a superior line play.

Fairfield 21 — Norwalk 6

With Skultety making three decisive plays that netted touchdowns, Fairfield trimmed a Norwalk eleven by a 21-6 score. Norwalk, having a tricky offense, found the going tough in Fairfield territory but they refused to give up and pushed across for a touchdown late in the second quarter. A fake pass executed by Skultety resulted in a forty yard run that was the highlight of the game.

Fairfield 13 — Stratford 0

Mud, mud, and more mud! The weather conditions were the worst the boys had to play in all year. However, this did not seem to bother the Ludlowites, for they notched a touchdown in each half to secure their second successive victory in two years over Stratford. Stratford's tricky offense was a threat throughout the game, but the Ludlowe lads did not yield.

Fairfield 13 — Danbury 0

Fairfield, turning in one of its poorest performances of the year, was completely baffled by Danbury's modified T. A stubborn defense when the chips were down held off the Hatters threats. Skultety raced 60 yards to a touchdown early in the first quarter, while he ran 30 yards to score on an intercepted pass in the third quarter.

Fairfield 20 — Bassick 0

In the annual Turkey Day Clash with our arch rival, Bassick, the Ludlowe squad performed brilliantly to achieve its greatest victory of the season. This was a decisive victory considering the scores in previous games.

Concluding the season, Lobdell was presented with the Gallagher Trophy for the season's outstanding player, while Skultety and Skiba were presented with trophies for outstanding performances in the Bassick game. In recognition of their accomplishments, the team and coaching staff were awarded gold footballs by the Fathers' Club. Captain Skultety was chosen for the All-State team for his season's playing and attended the All-Sports Banquet in New Haven. And so a successful football season came to a close!

Basketball

Pat Farma with 143 points, Jacouzzi with 113 points, and Bob Seirup with 111 points led the team in scoring; but the back court play of Bill Seirup and Al Skultety was also outstanding.

The team has shown fine defensive and offensive playing and we are confident that they will prove their worth in the New England Tournament. Diminutive and fleet-footed forwards, Pat Farma and Rocco Jacouzzi, the rangy center, Bob Seirup, together with the ever sharp guards, Bill Seirup and Alex Skultety, compose the first team. Towering Milt Pellett, tricky Mait McNamara and snappy "Zeke" Sullivan serve as dependable subs.

The team started off the season by drubbing Fairfield Prep by a score of 42-19, but were defeated by Stratford 33-20 on their second trial. After the Christmas holidays the players bounced back to their former brilliant playing and defeated Milford 42-20, Bassick 25-17, Harding 33-28, and Norwalk 40-28. At the end of a four-game winning streak, they were nosed out in three games by Central, Greenwich, and Harding. The scores were 33-31, 35-34, 28-24, respectively. In the next four games they trounced Danbury 42-28 and 35-19, Bassick 35-33, and Central 43-29. The team was defeated by Norwalk in the Norwalk gym in a nip and tuck game which ended with a score of 33-27. Although Stamford and Stratford were favored in the last two games, the Ludlowites nosed them both out by scores of 33-32 and 37-34.

Basketball Team

9 out of 10 foul shots, 10 out of 10 from the left side, 10 out of 10—and so on. That's how the varsity girls' record looks! Or is supposed to! Everyday each of the varsity and J. V. forwards tries ten shots from four different places on the court, and the record is carefully kept. It's wonderful practice and it pays dividends. When one of the girls is in one of these four positions, Terry Roberts, team captain, has nary a fear that the ball will not swish right through the basket. Once in a while chance plays tricks on the ball, but more often the practice proves itself.

Not only shooting but lightning passes make the team really fast. The ball glides from Terry Roberts to Jean Taylor to Betty Whitney like a flash in varsity games. Often it is Pearl Pollack who steams up the court, dribbling in for a basket.

But we can't overlook the guards, and although they don't keep records, the team would be sunk without adhesive qualities of Teddy Burr, Elaine Porter, and Thora Carr, not to speak of Betsy Herold.

And how about those J. V.'s? They certainly are indispensible! Next year many of them will be the Varsity—and what is Fairfield High without the traditional super-basketball team. Of course, even super-teams need practice so Doris Ecklund, J. V. captain, can often be found setting an example as she practices in the gym.

The team's first game, with Junior College, was a glorious victory, 49 to 18, and set the girls on the road to a successful season. Whether this prediction comes true remains to be seen, but we'll give you odds!

Along with varsity basketball go interclass games, and interclass certainly is popular. So popular, in fact, that there are three freshman and three sophomore teams and two junior and two senior teams. These rough and ready games are certainly as exciting as any of the boys' games. The playing is the best because it is in interclass that Miss O'Dwyer finds material for future varsities.

GIRLS' HOCKEY

Hockey

Practice, practice, practice! That's what makes a good hockey team, so that's what we did! About three times a week clouds of dust rose from the stampede of the varsity eleven down at Legion Field. Neither cold, fog, nor snow could dampen the fighting spirit of the team.

Perhaps the reason for the team's enthusiasm was due to the popularity of the sport among the Fairfield girls. Most other schools can scarcely raise enough girls for two teams, while here at Ludlowe over one hundred girls turned out for inter-class hockey. From these, an honor team was chosen which participated in varsity games with other schools. The girls fought valiantly under the leadership of their captain, Jean Taylor at center, and emerged with a good record.

Jean was flanked by hard-pushing inners in Joyce Viebranz and Betty Rowe. The wings, Pat Cartwright and Elaine Porter, never failed to bring up the ball when it came their way. A fighting backfield, Pat Pellett, Pearl Pollack and Teddie Burr, half-backs—and Thora Carr and Barbara Porter, full backs, followed up the forward wall. Linda Wilson did her best to protect Fairfield's goal.

The interclass tournament was fast and furious with Joyce Viebranz's senior team just nosing out the others to finish first.

Girls' A. A.

What does it take to be a member of the A. A.? Well, we could say it takes outstanding ability and stuff, but actually all you need is a good healthy interest in sports, nonbreakable limbs, and a few free afternoons.

You can accumulate six points in no time with a little effort. It's fun if you have a share in those heated arguments and rib-busting antics.

Whatever you have to go through, it's worth it. Why? Of course, there's the prestige, but aside from that, there's a terrifically funny initiation; it's terrifically funny for everybody but the poor souls who are being initiated. Then there's the annual trip to New York. Have you noticed the new gray hairs in Miss O'D's head? No? Well, that is only one of the visible effects of the trip. The girls really have a wonderful time despite all these obstacles.

When complaints occur, as they sometimes do, they are directed to Teddy Burr, president, who hands them to Jean Taylor, vice-president. From there they go to Doris Ecklund, secretary, who finally gives them to Miss O'D. By this time the complaint has been forgotten.

By the way, one of the best features of the club is that there aren't any dues.

Bowling

Strikes and spares galore! That's our bowling club! Well, anyway, sometimes. After all, it isn't the score that counts, it's the fun you get out of it.

The manager, Pat Cartwright, rushes madly through the throngs of girls milling about in the Fairfield Bowling Academy. And there are throngs, believe me! You may see this for yourself any Thursday afternoon; that is, if the club hasn't been locked out. Yes, that has happened!

Once a year Fairfield plays hostess to the other high schools in this vicinity at a bowling play day. The competition between the schools is terrific!

Swimming

Splash! Gurgle-gurgle! What was that? Why that was merely a member of the Swimming Club trying a swan dive. Yes, we know it was more like a belly-flop, but practice makes perfect, and it won't be many more Wednesday nights before those girls get to be as graceful as Esther Williams . . . and as pretty—you know swimming does wonders for you.

Aside from the good effects, though, the girls really get a "kick" out of ducking each other and splashing around.

Instruction lasts for forty minutes; then the girls play for twenty minutes. Once a season there's a Splash Party to which strong-hearted males, who can stand the sight of straight, wet hair and un-made-up girls, are invited.

In case you walk by the Westport "Y" between seven and nine when the two classes are in session and happen to hear groans and screams of pain, don't get alarmed. It's just the victims of artificial respiration practice. Mrs. Sides has just recently begun a life saving course with the girls who are struggling valiantly to become efficient life savers.

"F" Club

Here they are! Ludlowe's choice athletes. These are the Glamazons—you know, Amazons with glamor! In one way or another each of these girls has accumulated twenty points or more, enough for an "F" sweater. Before they reached the hard-earned "Twenty" mark, they each received a crew hat plus a silver fox pin for fifteen points. This award, the "F", is the highest given to a girl for athletics, and she really has to work for it.

Occasionally a girl who has not been on any varsity team achieves an "F", but she has to struggle through play days and rugged inter-class games. And they are rugged!

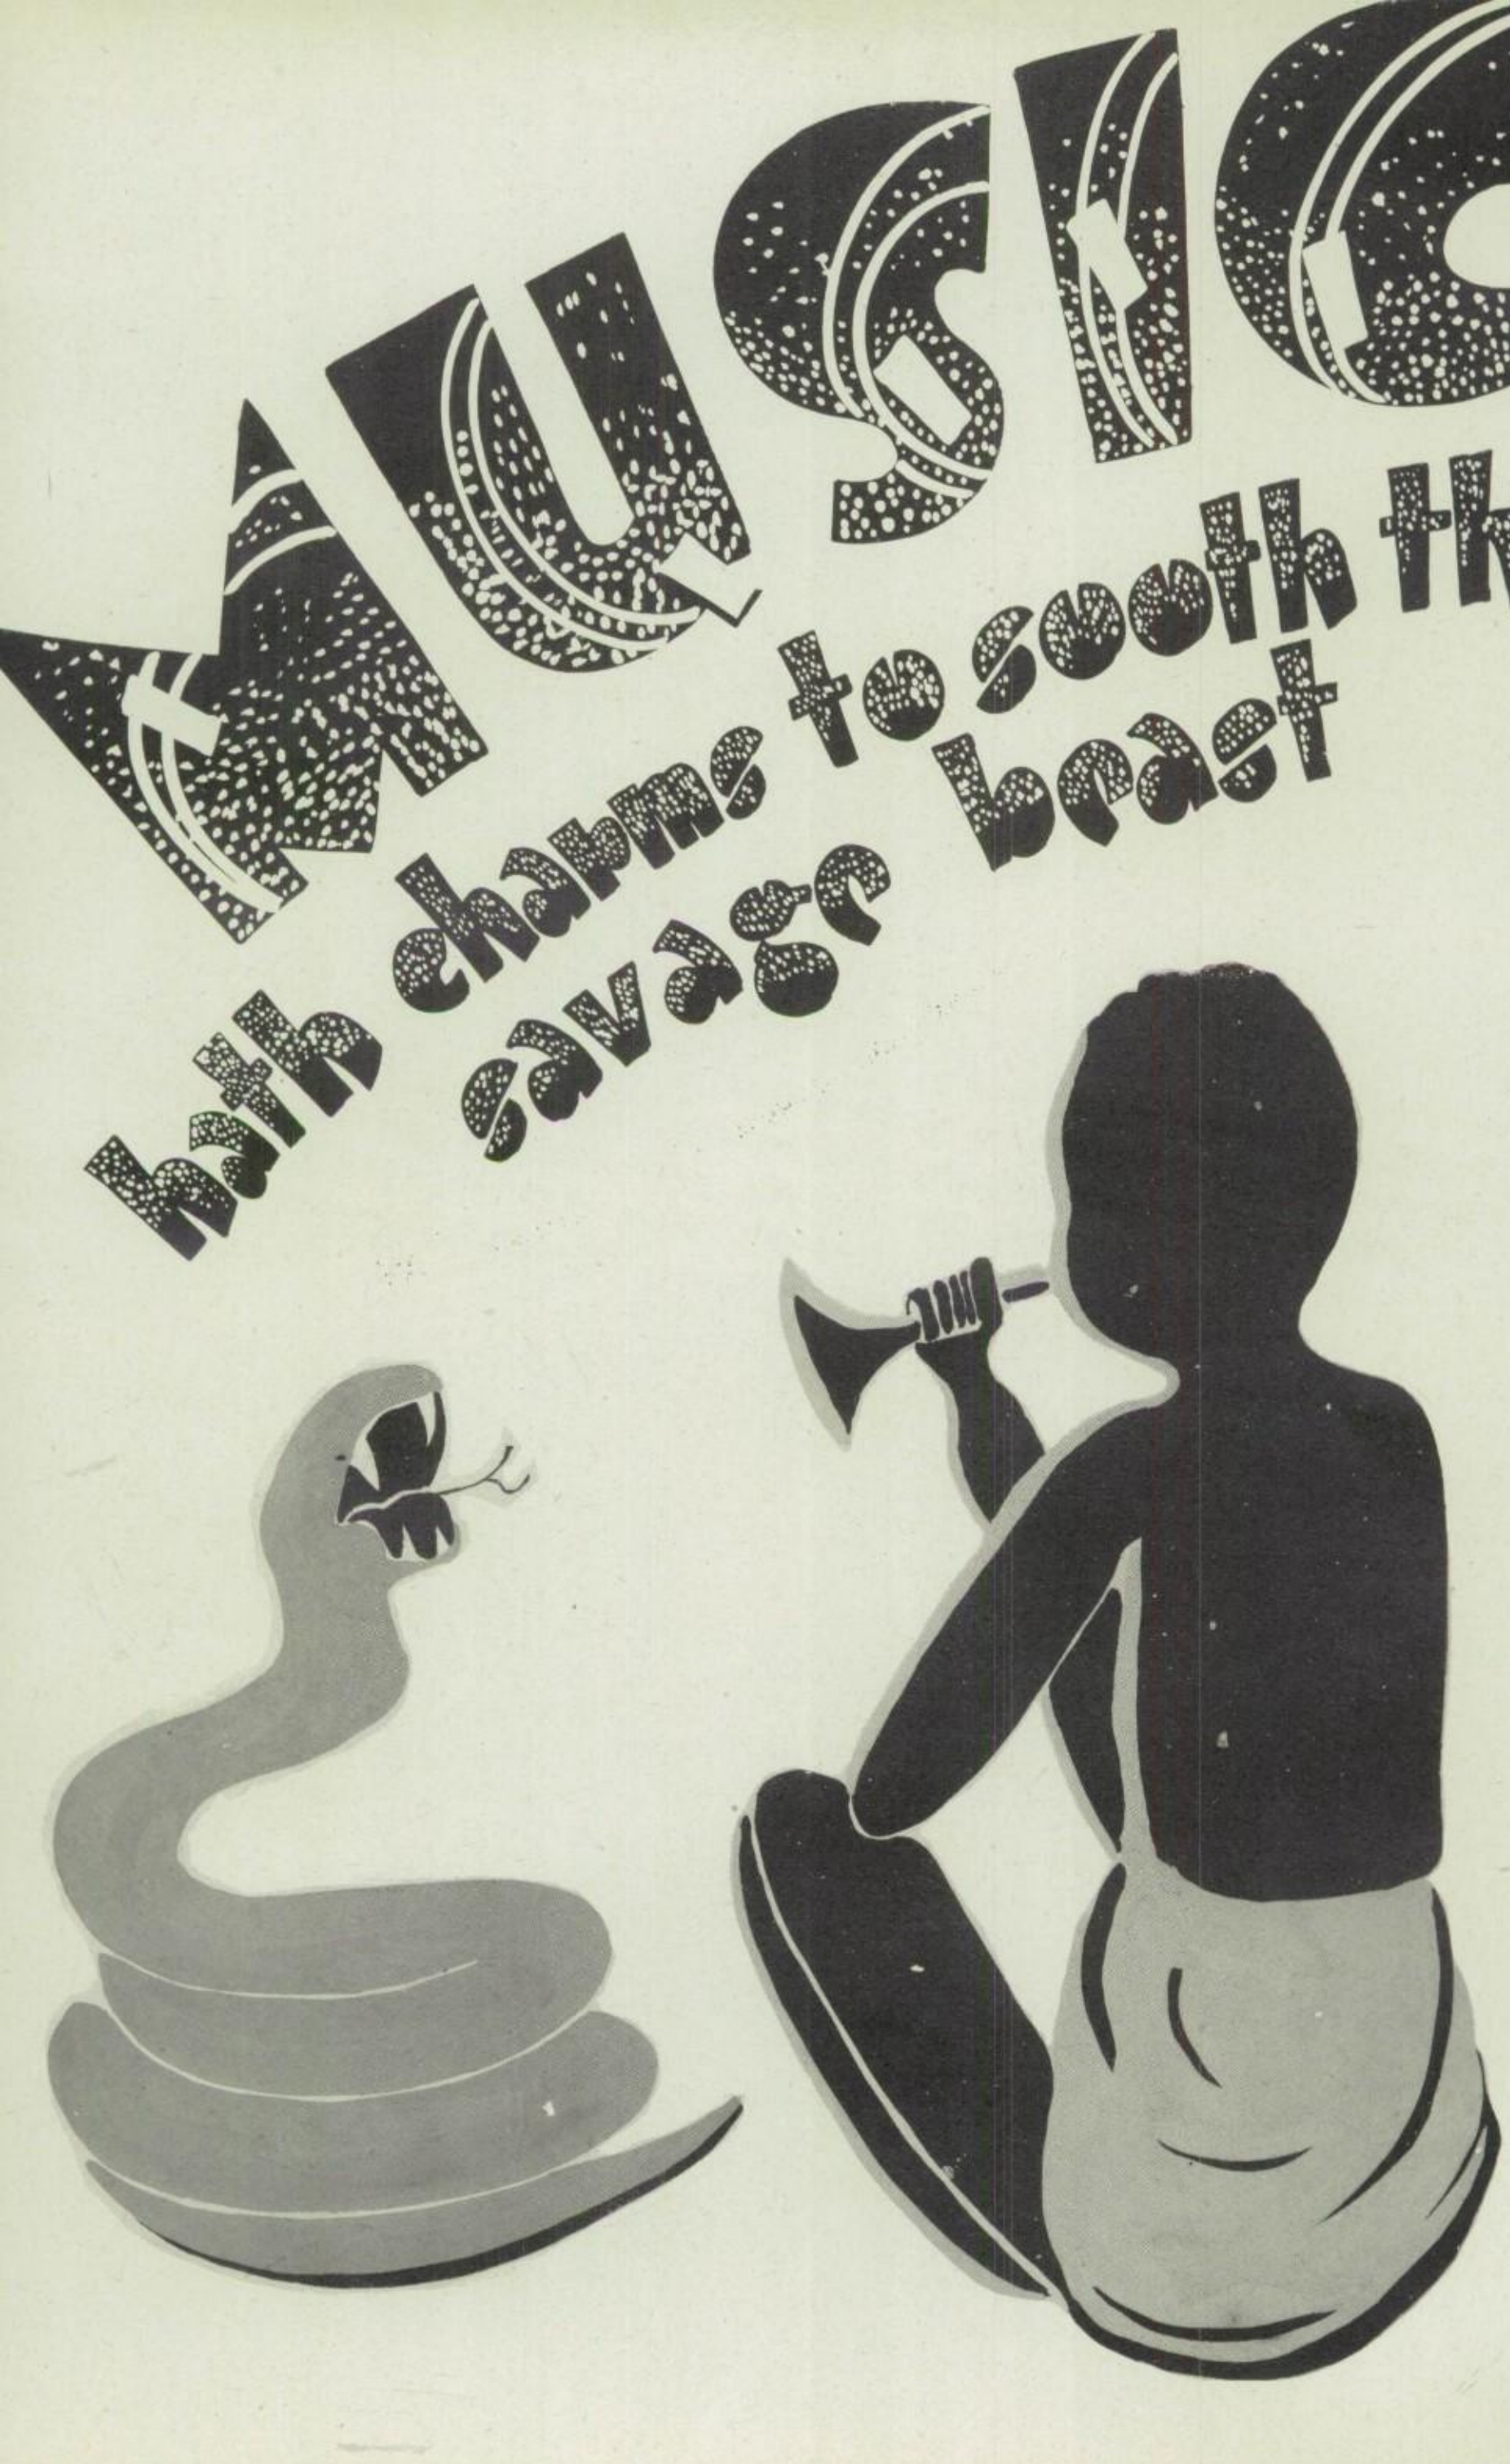
If a girl should get nineteen pionts and just can't seem to squeeze out the very last one, the club votes on her eligibility. Actually, the Girls' "F" Club entails a long period of hard work; one varsity position doesn't give you an "F" by any means.

From time to time the club gets together to discuss business matters, but more often it meets for social gatherings.

The "F" Club is a strictly senior organization, and the requirements are really stiff. Work hard, under classmen. You may be one of the Glamazons yet!

MUSIC

hath charms to sooth the savage beast



The Band

The band started the year with forty-nine members, sixteen of them being freshmen. Six more players were added during the year. As usual they played for all home games during the football season.

Several new instruments were provided by the Board of Education. Among them were a bass clarinet and a bassoon, both of which were most welcome additions to the woodwind section, thereby giving a much better balance of instrumentation.

The Thirteenth Annual Spring Concert on April 13, featured Joe Powers and Warren Carlson in a trumpet duet, Eddie Kish in a baritone horn solo, and for the first time one of our boys, John Filep, was vocal soloist singing the very timely "Road to Mandalay" by Oley Speaks.

The principal feature of the concert was a special arrangement by Mr. Bayers of Stephen Foster's "Oh Susanna" in the dance rhythms of six different countries and danced by groups of students in the costumes of these countries. The dancers were trained and directed by our capable Miss O'Dwyer.

The band also played for the annual "Uncle Joe's Night," the feature number being the humorous "Ragtime Wedding" and, of course, the Memorial Day Parade was headed by the Roger Ludlowe Band.

Ten members of the band were members of the graduating class.

September marked the beginning of an ambitious year for the fifty A Cappella Choir members under the direction of Miss M. Irene Walter. Comprised mostly of juniors and seniors, the choir elected their officers as follows: President, Vivian Carroll; Vice-President, John Filep; Secretary, Beryl Pinckney; and Treasurer, Robert Janson.

Twelve representatives, elected by the choir, participated in an All State High School chorus of three hundred voices which sang in Hartford in a coast to coast broadcast on October 27.

At Thanksgiving and again at Christmas, the well-trained group sang at special assemblies in conjunction with the English and Art departments and entertained interested parents by renditions of several types of songs to exemplify the work accomplished in practice periods.

Christmas found the choir with two invitation appearances in Bridgeport. One was at the Catholic Women's Guild while the other was the Christmas Carol Concert sponsored by the Wednesday Afternoon Musical Society. Choirs from the high schools of Bridgeport, Stratford, and Fairfield sang in this concert at the United Congregational Church.

The year's work was brought to a climax by the Annual Spring Concert. This was held on May 4, and was a huge success. The program had a great deal of variety from the very serious "Ode to America" by Noble Cain to the humorous "Grasshopper" by Clokey and Randolph. Many new voices were heard in solo parts at this time.

This year has been a very busy and successful one for the A Cappella Choir. Now that it is over, the members look in retrospect at the fun that accompanied the hard work necessary for finished performances. The fine reputation of this musical organization is becoming firmly established.

Orchestra

Our orchestra was smaller than usual this year with a membership of twenty-two at the beginning of the year. Five more members were added later. Our greatest need was for string players.

The addition of the oboe and bassoon have been especially valuable to the orchestra.

We took part in an assembly program at Christmas time, played for the Komians, and gave a concert with the Glee Clubs in May. The orchestra, as usual, furnished the graduation music.

Ten of our members were graduated this year.

Girls' Chorus

The Girls' Chorus, an after school organization of sixty regular members, is directed by Miss M. Irene Walter. The membership is comprised mostly of freshman and sophomore girls with a sprinkling of upperclassmen.

The purpose of the chorus, started last year, is to practice the art of singing together, to follow the director, and to enjoy the fun of recreational singing in a large group.

It is from this group that recommendations are made for A Cappella Choir membership. This year about a dozen girls from the ranks of the Girls' Chorus have been invited to join the highly selective organization.

The chorus sang at the Thanksgiving assembly in November, and again in public on May 18, when it assisted the orchestra in an evening concert.

Barbara Stewart

Senior Council

For the second straight year thirteen members, instead of the usual twelve, were elected to the Senior Council of Roger Ludlowe.

Miss Mary Thompson and Mr. Leo Rosenthal were asked to be faculty advisers, while Milton Pellet was chosen President; Robert Sadowski, Vice-President; and Vivian Carroll, Secretary.

The first activity of the Council was the sponsoring of the War Bond and Stamp Drive with the result that the school was awarded the Minute-Man Flag in October and has maintained better than 90% participation throughout the year.

In addition to conducting two very successful school dances, the Council played host at a delightful tea held for all members of the faculty.

Along with members of the Student Congress, the Council proposed greater responsibilities and self-government for the student body. At an assembly they secured the cooperation of the school to make their plan a success.

Student Congress

In September the Student Congress was organized with Charles Atherton, President; George Schuman, Vice-President; and Edmund D'Attelo, Secretary. This year the Student Congress has been particularly active attempting wherever possible to assist in supervising student activities and to aid in making our school a better school in which to live. In addition to appointing and supervising the hall monitors, it has reorganized and is supervising by means of a traffic commission the student patrol. It has set up for the student body certain regulations which it is taking the responsibility of enforcing. It has secured for the student body certain privileges through personal appearances before the faculty. All these activities tend towards better faculty and student relationship and a more harmonious school life.

Fox

When the senior class first conceived the idea of a school newspaper in 1933, they hardly dreamed that it would survive its first year. However, the publication, which they entitled The Fox, deriving this name from the four foxes on the school seal, flourishes and for the past twelve years has been among the most important extra-curricular activities of the school.

This year the In-Brief column and Live Letters to the Editor are new features. The Fox has increased the staff membership, the size of the paper, and the advertisements. Also for the first time in the history of the school The Fox has entered the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. Because of the war, the annual spring conference held in New York was cancelled.

Though The Fox has been a students' paper it could never have existed without the untiring patience and helpful guidance of its faculty advisers—Winifred E. Sanders, Charles E. Luminati, and Leo Rosenthal.

Fox Editors Planning Make-Up

This year the Commercial Club started again its ever popular newspaper The Commercialite. The first issue came out on Valentine's Day, and it proved to be a great success.

In addition to the publication of the paper, program committees appointed at each meeting put on various skits and entertainments. These were educational in nature and of great interest to the members, most of whom are planning business careers.

The officers of the club are as follows: President, James Rozgonyi; Vice-President, Jo Ann Sliney; Treasurer, Peggy Norton; Secretary, Ann Berardino.

Chemistry Club

This year the Chemistry Club, under the able supervision of Miss Waner, and aided by President, Albert Driver; Vice-President, Sue Fisher; Secretary-Treasurer, Doris Arnold; Librarian, Patricia Kellogg; and Sergeant-at-Arms, William Buermeyer, has continued its purpose in broadening our knowledge of chemistry.

Our meetings have consisted of prepared reports, demonstration experiments, and movies. Topics on chemistry in everyday life, lives of keystone chemists, explosives, medicine, and current events were discussed by members, each of whom participated in at least one meeting. Because of prevailing war conditions, our activities were limited; however, we have accomplished our purpose of knowing more of modern chemistry.

The Theater Club

The Theater Club is organized to acquaint its members with the best plays of the New York stage and to create an interest in the theater and its personalities.

Membership is open to juniors and seniors. This year two week-end trips were planned, one in March and the other in April.

The New York stage of 1945 offers many delightful plays; and, for our group, many pleasant discussions.

"Oklahoma," "The Bloomer Girl," "Up in Central Park," "On the Town," "The Song of Norway," and Margaret Webster's, "The Tempest," are just a few of the plays considered.

The officers of the club are:

President.....Adele Daley
Vice-President.....Joy Mercurio
Secretary.....Alice Grywalski
Treasurer.....Helen Kucky

Miss Elizabeth McLaughlin is the group adviser.

Stage Crew

The Stage Crew this year has welcomed several new members including three freshmen.

It has been an especially active year for the group, as the Fathers' Club has put on two shows instead of their usual one. In addition, many more classes have taken advantage of the facilities for visual education, and this has created a greater demand for the services of projector operators. Each boy and girl is trying to maintain the standard for excellent work set by former members.

Freshman-Sophomore Dramatic Club

The Freshman-Sophomore Dramatic Club was organized under the direction of Miss Copeland. It holds its meetings during Activity period once a month. During this meeting an appointed group gives entertainment such as small plays, monologues, poems, and skits. Recently the group has appointed three freshmen and three sophomores to select the plays to be given at the end of the year for Freshman-Sophomore night. Those holding office are: Barbara Walsh, President; Edythe Jarvis, Vice-President; Susan Waldo, Secretary and Treasurer.

In September only six Thespians remained in school—Arlene Baumrind, Marjorie Bock, Janet Drew, Barbara Stewart, Justine Williams, and Charles Bartlett.

At the organization meeting officers for the Komians were elected as follows: Ed D'Attelo, President; Barbara Stewart, Vice-President; Vivian Carroll, Secretary; and Ed Lobdell, Treasurer.

The Thespians took charge of the meetings in which many of the 150 members took part. Especially noteworthy was the meeting in which a one-act play, "Great Caesar," was presented under the direction of Justine Williams.

And now the big night for the cast of "The Sunshine Twins" is over. The amusing situation and witty lines of the play kept the audience convulsed with laughter through the entire evening. This comedy by Dana Thomas was a huge success due to the excellent work of the cast which included Muriel Leary and Bernard Lee as the twins. The remainder of the cast included Edna Flicker, Walter Danylko, Shirley Gagnon, Lora Civkin, Dick Forsyth, Mario Fracassini, Herbert Malin, Phyllis Donley, and Pat Cartwright.

Anita Liptak assisted Miss Kelly in the direction of the play and also as prompter.

Home Mechanics Club

The Home Mechanics Club, with a membership of more than 150, is limited to students not enrolled in Industrial Arts courses. It is divided into four sections under the direction of Mr. Ambrose, Mr. Chase, Mr. Duso, and Mr. Wright.

Some of the units studied include furniture repair, refinishing, electrical appliance repair, repairs to plumbing fixtures, and soldering. These units are presented with the aim of helping these students to understand the construction and operation of common home furnishings, appliances and fixtures, as well as simple maintenance and repair operations which may prolong the usefulness of such articles.

Debating Club

This year at the request of several sophomores, the Debating Club was formed for the benefit of the lower classmen. Under the capable supervision of Mr. Stebbins this group has conducted a debate at each club meeting. The members have profited greatly from his instructions on the fundamentals of public speaking and debating. As subjects for the discussions we selected topics of current interest. One, for instance, was the proposition: That Military Training Should Be Compulsory. Another debate was on the question: Resolved That Capital Punishment Should Be Abolished. Besides debates within the club we have challenged the Forum Club to a formal debate. Thus the club has been not only educational, but also highly interesting to all concerned.

President ..... Leonard Kunin
Vice President ..... Terry Breslav
Secretary-Treasurer ..... Marie McCarthy

It is hoped that in the future the Debating Club will provide a worthwhile activity for all freshmen and sophomores interested in debating and public speaking.

The Travel Club

We have successfully covered a great many inches this year, and have inspected many out of the way spots in spite of rationing through the use of "movies." A cross-country trip from Fairfield to California was the subject of the first program. Latin-American scenes were next requested by the group, and in two meetings most of the large countries were visited. Of special interest were many of the pictures taken in the Andean Mountains showing the Indians in native costumes and enjoying ancient festivals. A short excursion was made to India, and before the year is completed, visits are contemplated to Europe and Africa.

The club has played host to the Spanish group, and at the last meeting we were the guests of the Railroad Enthusiasts when we had the oppportunity of seeing a modern railroad in action.

At the organization meeting the following officers were elected:

President ..... Emma Domonkos
Vice-President ..... Catherine Kaminski
Secretary ..... Rosemary Demshak
Treasurer ..... Francis Salvo

The Camera Club

The Camera Club of Roger Ludlowe High School was organized in January of this year for the purpose of providing the school with competent photographers for the yearbook and school newspaper staffs in the future. Bernard Lee was chosen president and Robert Nussenfeld vice-president. Miss Winifred E. Sanders was the faculty adviser. Permission was obtained for the use of the school dark room as soon as it could be outfitted.

At one meeting each member brought in his camera and a discussion was held concerning the advantages and drawbacks of each. Mr. C. E. Thompson from Senior's Camera Shop came to one of the first meetings and explained the basic fundamentals of photography.

Gift Club

Gift Club was reorganized this year with a large number of freshmen girls joining the group. Officers elected at the beginning of the year were as follows: President, Nancy Meeker; Vice-President, Marianne Sorensen; Secretary and Treasurer, Patricia Connell. The members, under the leadership of Miss Banks, learned to make a wide variety of useful gifts including knitted socks, mittens, scarves, and crocheted and embroidered articles.

Latin Club

The Latin Club of 1945 has great aspirations. It includes about twenty-three students from the freshman and sophomore classes. We chose Latin names for our officers, and they are as follows:

Imperator (Pres.) ..... Lista Lincoln
Dux (V. Pres.) ..... Cliff Johnson
Scribe (Sec.) ..... Jane Hitchcock
Quaestor (Treas.) ..... Nancy Downs

We also have a Legion (Social Committee) comprised of both freshmen and sophomores.

Miss Dimick, our teacher, has made many suggestions for entertainment. We hope to have a party in the spring.

To make it more interesting for the members of the Latin Club, Miss Dimick suggested we might visit a Latin Club at another school, namely, Harding High, which will also be in the spring.

We are starting a program of varied projects which will be on display for the whole school as soon as it is completed.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club, organized by the pupils of Spanish II and III, was formed only this year. It aims to give the students interesting sidelights, such as games, songs, and movies which are not possible in class time. Under the direction of Arthur Leiss, President; Ann Riker, Vice-President; Nancy Whitney, Secretary; and Raymond Alvey, Treasurer, we have enjoyed many interesting meetings carried on almost entirely in Spanish.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Yearbook Staff and Advisers wish to express their sincere gratitude to all those who have assisted in the 1945 edition of Fairfieldiana.

To Mr. Kravitt and Mr. Weising, the photographers.

To T. O'Toole & Sons, Inc., publishers.

To the Members of the Faculty.

To Miss Judson and the art students.

To the students who assisted in the club write-ups, who contributed camera shots, and who typed copy.

To the Advertisers whose generous co-operation has made possible the publishing of this yearbook.

Winning Battles On The Home Front

We all have the opportunity of winning this present battle. At home we must co-operate in the war effort if we wish to hasten the close of the period of hatred.

Many have entered war factories to make our assembly line the fastest ever known. Ship builders have employed so great a number that ships slide down the ways in ever increasing numbers. Professional people have a larger amount of burdens since fellow workers have been called to the colors, but all are willing to work for the prize we seek.

Youngsters from kindergarten up to the high school age are collecting salvage—a valued task at present. Older children have taken jobs as part-time workers and find time for Red Cross work and community activities.

We are proud of the fine job Fairfield is doing in all her policies.

By keeping the wheels rolling here we are making it easier for the fighters on foreign soil to come home from over there.

Roger Ludlowe Boys On All Fronts

In Germany, Italy, the Phillipines, and on Iwo—in the air and on the seas—maintaining services and communication—the Boys from Roger Ludlowe are doing their job.

From Fairfield to these far places they have taken the tradition of their homeland.

To Fairfield they will return bringing new and different reactions to our community.

Are we ready to show that their sacrifice means something to us? Will some of them be with us only as a gold star on a flag?

Roger Ludlowe Girls In Service

Among the many American girls fighting here and abroad are some of our own girls—Fairfield girls. A few years ago they may have been just Nancy Jones and Sally Black; but today they are performing a worthy part in hospitals, offices, and on the battle front as nurses.

They have released men to take part in combat zones. They have become experienced mechanics, electricians, and engineers within a short time. They went where they thought they would do most good.

Theirs has been a sacrifice of the fine luxuries of life in order to re-establish that flaming torch in hearts of all Fairfield citizens.

When victory is won, we can be sure these women soldiers will be worthy of praise. Think of them often; send them letters about home; and they will know that we have not forsaken them. But most of all—Remember—Fairfield also has women in this war!

Give Him A Job When He Comes Back . . .

The least we can do for our fighting men is to have jobs for them to fill when they come back—when they come back.

They are our boys, our own Fairfield sons. We must insure their future happiness. Make a promise to them—Keep it! They are maintaining peace for us—in America and in Fairfield—the rights and freedom in which we find that happiness for ourselves and our posterity.

Think of how he can accomplish his part when he isn't a soldier. He doesn't want to come home and fight another battle—a battle less tragic but as important as a world combat. Remember, please—give him a Job when he comes back!

Tell him about the family and how they are getting along . . . what they're doing to help the war effort . . . whom they've been seeing and what they've been doing. Tell him that everyone's well and planning for his safe return.

Get the latest news about friends and relatives in the service.

Remind him of past events and of places he used to visit. Give him news about organizations, churches, or the theaters.

Send him clippings from newspapers, interesting events, or changes in the home-town . . . news about sports, especially about home teams.

Write letters that are sweet and short—letters that give a lift—above all—write often.

RED CROSS . . . EVERYWHERE

The Red Cross is ready all the time in all the world. It can accomplish a great deal more if it has the support of the home front. With aid it can furnish aid to prisoners of war with useful articles. It can bring those away from home close to home.

Through the Red Cross Home Service Center, servicemen are able to write to their families and loved ones. Oftentimes the Red Cross enables Service Men to see their families.

Another functioning of the Red Cross is its rehabilitation center which helps wounded and maimed men to care for themselves and overcome disabilities. On the whole the work of the Red Cross is inestimable. Its range of activities includes so much good in so many places that we cannot keep track of them. But we do know that our contributions could go to no worthier cause.

The Red Cross is a world-known organization which has been and will be perhaps the foremost in fostering care to the needy.

There Is No Worthier Cause.

BONDS FOR AMERICA

"When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again"—it will be a grand world—a world of wonderful opportunities. Perhaps that is why Fairfield citizens are putting their earnings into War Bonds.

But are they buying to their fullest possible "Share?" "Shares," in the business of winning a terrible war?

It is the duty of all on the home front to place at work every available penny. Our "Shares" will be a "Share" in Johnny's future and will help speed the day of his home coming.

Promote his dreams into realities—buy bonds and hasten the close of an era we are striving to surmount. Let your motto be . . . "Buy Bonds To Win."

Let all America buy and be determined to buy more and more until victory.

Make It Do!! Don't Buy New!!

Don't throw that old tin can away. Save that empty tube. It can be melted down. Save, save, save. Don't waste anything. Don't throw away anything.

If you have something that is of no use any longer, make it over or give it to someone, but don't waste it. Paper is scarce in our ally nations. Before you carelessly use and throw away that next piece of paper, think—some lonely mother or father could use that to write a short note to a son or daughter.

Waste is an attributè of war. Can we overcome this dreadful habit? Yes, think before your every act. In this way you are boosting the future victory which you said you would give anything to attain. You have given much already—keep up the pace.

Our Community Chest Depends Upon Your HELP

Every citizen should know the part the Community Chest plays in his town. The Chest is financed by voluntary subscriptions of citizens who know something about the good it does in many town practices.

In the less prosperous times the Chest helped the needy families by providing it the necessities. It aids the Boy and Girl Scouts, the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s, the hospitals, and other municipal institutions.

With our aid the Community Chest can do more and more to benefit our townspeople in many ways. "It is the pillar of Democracy," and it preserves the home front morale. We know how important this is.

In the many fields the Community Chest embraces, it works co-operatively with the local chapters of the Red Cross Family Welfare Society, Visiting Nurse Association, and the Emergency Relief Fund. It depends on yours and everybody's help. Give it your wholehearted support.

Give It Your Wholehearted Support.

BLOOD BANKS

We all know the main purpose of the Blood Bank. It is to furnish plasma from human beings to save human lives. All may become donors by merely going to the Blood Bank. Every drop of blood counts, and therefore your part is important.

We have stakes in these fighting men and women, for they are our own flesh and blood. They are sacrificing their lives so we can live happily. We can save the lives of dear ones by helping in this very sacred way.

It is a wonderful feeling to know that your blood has gone to some battlefront to restore a nearly lifeless body. Be grateful that you are in good health and can help that service man or woman. Become a blood donor now.
